

“ Working with professionals such as BCB is vital. We want to provide as many enriching, real life experiences as we possibly can for all of our pupils - thank you for being such a significant part of this. The pupils spoke with real passion and enthusiasm about the work that they have completed via CLAY School. They thoroughly enjoyed the whole process. ”

Principal, Thistley Hough Academy,
Creative Education Trust, Stoke-on-Trent

 CLAY
School

 CLAY
School

If you would like to find out more information on CLAY School or have a informal chat, please contact:
Natalie Armitage
CLAY School Programme Manager
natalie@britishceramicsbiennial.com
01782 294496

 @BritishCeramics.Biennial

 @BCBfestival

 @british_ceramics_biennial

britishceramicsbiennial.com

Supported by:

arts connect

WORLD of WEDGWOOD
JOHNSON·TILES

 POTCLAYS
United Kingdom

British Ceramics
Biennial

The CLAY (Ceramics Learning And Young people) School Partnership is a beacon national programme from the British Ceramics Biennial that shows the importance of hands-on art, cultural education, and demonstrates pathways to creative industries.

Launched in October 2017, CLAY School advocates for the cross-curricular provision of ceramics and aims to work with all schools in Stoke-on-Trent, the world capital of ceramics, by 2021. Through our growing network of schools, hands-on creative learning experiences with artists, and engaging teachers through specialised CPD sessions, CLAY School enables your school to get ceramics back into the classroom.

As a CLAY School Member your school will have access to a range of offers, events, learning materials, and become part of a dynamic network of schools and teachers.

CLAY SCHOOL MEMBERSHIP

£150 Annual Membership Fee

- Access for teachers to attend CPD Sessions that are run throughout the year provided by the British Ceramics Biennial and our CLAY School partners.
- Priority booking for your school to British Ceramics Biennial Festival 2019.
- Networking opportunities at the annual CLAY School Partnership Event. In 2018, this will take place at World of Wedgwood, where invited teachers will have the opportunity to enjoy afternoon tea, while listening to selected speakers and then take part in a hands-on ceramic CPD session.
- Termly CLAY School Newsletter keeping you up to date with events, activities and industry news.
- Exclusive discounts and offers from our CLAY School Partners.
- Support from the British Ceramics Biennial team and our CLAY School Ambassador teachers via the CLAY School Facebook group.
- CLAY School Beacon Plaque to display in your school and let visitors know that you are part of the CLAY School Partnership.
- Exclusivity on hearing about British Ceramics Biennial projects and how your school can get involved.
- Option to upgrade and take part in CLAY School Projects, Bespoke CLAY School and BCB Special Projects for an additional one-off fee.

